

Passenger Mobility: Seamless Passenger Multimodal Mobility In Urban Areas

Shadi Sharif Azadeh

Delft University of Technology

To achieve a well-connected multimodal passenger mobility system, seamless connectivity and synchronization between the modes are essential. In this presentation, we will explain how uncertainties on both demand and supply sides can be tackled through tailored machine learning methods that can efficiently be integrated in optimization models. Predict-then-optimize framework using ML and OR methods will be explained through real-case examples.